BUTCHER GOWNS.

And Gowns, Dusters, Coats and Sleeves in Various Occupations.

Butchers' gowns, which are made of cotton and linen, come often in all white, sometimes in blue check, often in material that is plaided off with lines on white ground. Sometimes the lines are all of the same color; sometimes lines of two or three different colors are woven into the fabric. There are many tasteful designs in the materials used for butcher gowns. Beef handlers wear usually a gown or duster made of a dark blue material, says the New York Sun.

Fish dealers wear a duster or gown of blue check. Grocers' dusters are made most commonly of blue linen, as are the dusters worn by druggists; they are sometimes made of a striped cotton material. The bartender wears a white duck coat, and there are white duck coats made for barbers.

There are aprons made in various styles, for butchers, bartenders, and others. Aprons are almost always white. Sleeves are sold for butchers made of white material, and also of material to match the gown. Straw cuffs are worn by many. Winter ulsters are made for butchers and others whose business or occupation may make them desirable.

There are tailors who confine their attention to the making and selling of butcher and other gowns, dusters and coats, and the aprons, sleeves and cuffs commonly worn with them.

"TEAR PITS" OF THE DEER.

Grounds for the Poets' Claims That a Stag Weeps.

Both the poets and the prose writers of imaginative or contemplative turn of mind have often alluded to the tears shed by stags and other wounded creatures of the deer family, says the St. Louis Republic. Shakespeare put it in this way in describing the injured stag: The big round tears Coursed one another down his innocent nose.

In piteous chase. There is, of course, more poetry than truth in these references to the actual shedding of tears by members of the deer family, yet it is a fact that such animals are provided with a curious set of organs, the action of which has given rise to the tear shedding belief. The organ in question is the lacrymal sinus or "tear pit," which is situated just below each eye. It is a kind of closed cavity, capable of being opened at the pleasure of its owner and which secretes a greasy, waxy fluid. When creatures provided with this curious organ get hurt or become enraged it has the effect of softening the waxy substance in the "tear pit." When so softened, it escapes as tears would and flows down over the nose and face. The uses of this queer set of so-called lacrymal organs are not clearly understood by the zoologists.

AGREEABLY DISAPPOINTED.

He Thought She Was Begging, But She Merely Wanted the Mustard.

One of the richest men living, whose immense wealth makes him a target for poor people, has recently been in Paris and the way in which he repelled one of the applicants for his generosity is related like this, says the Pittsburgh Dispatch. On the opposite side of the hotel table sat a woman who had once been rich.

"Monsieur, you Englishmen are so chivalrous—so ready to assist those in distress."

"Yes," said the man of wealth, hesitating. He had heard that before and thought he knew what was coming next.

"Would you, with your usual generosity, do me a favor and a great kindness?"

"Yes, madam—that is, it depends somewhat—"

"Think well, monsieur, before you promise, for it is a great kindness."

It was the same old plea that he had heard many times before from people who wanted a loan.

"I am afraid, madam, that I shall have to—but what is it you wish?"

"Only that you would be kind enough, monsieur, to pass me the mustard. You have everything on your side of the table."

A Translation.

It is related that a sophomore one commencement day was crossing the campus of Emory college, Oxford, Ga., with his sweetheart, who stopped to read the inscription upon the stone to the memory of Ignatius Faw, the first president. "What does that mean?" she asked, pointing to the line, "Vivit non mortuus est." Proud of his ability to translate Latin, the student explained: "He lives. No, he doesn't, he's dead."—N. Y. Christian Advocate.

FOUND DEAD.

Why did he do it? He had everything to live for—happy home, wife, friends, money; but he shot himself through the heart. Why?

He couldn't have given a good reason himself. But everything looked gloomy to him. He was in a gloomy frame of mind. It was the way he looked at life that day. He had been living in too much of a hurry, rushing and driving at business, hustling through his meals, cutting short his sleep. His nerves got on edge, his stomach and liver got out of order; he grew dyspeptic and melancholy.

When the digestion is out of order there is little use trying to look on the bright side of things, practically there isn't any bright side. This is a dangerous condition to get into. Yet it is easy to get into and mighty hard to get out of it, unless you go about it in the right way.

There is a remedy that has pulled thousands of people right out of this depth of despair. It is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly upon the stomach and liver. It restores their natural capacity to nourish and purify the system. It purges away bilious poisons, feeds the nerve-centres with healthy, highly vitalized blood, and drives out the "blue devils" of melancholy and nervousness.

J. L. Warner, No. 1000 O Street, Sacramento, Cal., writes: "During the last five years I have been doctoring with as many as six different doctors here and in San Francisco for diseased stomach, but none of the doctors gave me even temporary relief. Two years ago I completely collapsed, and had to give up all work. I have felt many times that I would like to leave this world. In looking over the ads in the San Francisco Examiner I ran across yours, and I now owe my life and present good health to Dr. Pierce's medicines. I have taken fourteen bottles of the Golden Medical Discovery and four little vials of Pleasant Pellets, and I am entirely well of all stomach trouble. Can sleep nine hours every night, and am now ready to go to work again."

TO RETIRE GREENBACKS.

Senator Teller, of Colorado, says it is undoubtedly the purpose of this administration to retire the greenbacks and treasury notes and perfect a system by which the national banks will be authorized to issue all paper money. The next move of the gold men will be to retire silver and then bank notes will not be a legal tender. What will be the result? The administration will have succeeded in making gold the only money by which debts can be paid.

If Senator Teller is correct, and he generally is, all Government notes will be withdrawn from circulation and banks will be authorized to issue paper money at their discretion. For the paper money issued by the banks the Government will be security, as it now is. To secure the Government the banks will be required to deposit with the Controller of the Currency United States bonds. These bonds will draw interest, which the people will be taxed to pay, and the bank notes will be no better than notes issued direct by the Government. The Government, of course, could issue the notes direct and purchase the bonds, thus saving the interest, but that would not give the banks opportunity to make money at the expense of the public, and therefore, will not meet with favor from a party that is indebted to the banks and trusts for its success.

When Jackson was President of the United States the money power was as arrogant as it is now. The people were, however, more independent than they are to-day. Then, too, there was a man in the White House who could not be swayed from his devotion to the people; now we have a man in the White House who sends a commission to Europe on the pretext of converting the gold nations to bimetalism and sends a message to Congress recommending the appointment of a commission to place the country upon a permanent gold standard; a man who cannot be swayed from his devotion to the trusts.

ANOTHER PLOT.

The Paris police are taking every precaution to guard the person and life of Felix Faure, the President of the French Republic. It is rumored that he is the next victim singled out by the anarchists for execution. Angiolillo, the assassin of Premier Canovas, made a statement at his examination which indicates that a series of wholesale murders, by which the leading statesmen and rulers of Europe are to be destroyed, is contemplated. Incidentally he made the remarks, "It will soon be Felix Faure's turn. He will go through it like Carnot." It is a disgrace to this enlightened and Christian century that our laws produce men so demoralized, depraved, debased and so utterly devoid of all social and ethical principles. And yet they exist and flourish under our very noses. The whole continent of Europe is constantly in terror of the secret band and deeds of these anarchists and nihilist bands. Can we blame those countries for taking drastic and summary measures to protect themselves and their subjects against these social and political pirates. It would be a benefit to the world at large, an inestimable blessing conferred upon the family of nations, could the whole crew be gathered in a pit and blown into eternity by one of their infernal machines.

A new and novel use has been found by the French Custom Inspectors for the now famous Cathode Ray. It is proposed to call into requisition the great detecting powers of the Ray for the discovery and detection of goods smuggled through the lines as personal property. Heretofore it has been necessary to open and search every trunk, valise and parcel that comes across the border. Such operations involved great expenditure of labor and time upon the part of the officials, while in many cases the hasty examination consequent upon the great commotion and excitement of a frontier inspection post has allowed trunks and valises with false bottoms to pass the lines with impunity. Not only articles smuggled in this way but silks and laces carried concealed about the person often escapes the inspectors eye. By means of the X Ray and an ingenious apparatus specially contrived for the purpose, smuggling in this way will be effectually prevented and the Revenue Department will have the satisfaction of knowing that its ordinances are not being evaded by skillful operators.

Yesterday was an active day in the various coal mining districts. Many more of the men at work joined the strikers and for a time it was feared at different places that the deputies and strikers would clash and end in rioting. Nothing occurred, however, to precipitate any trouble. It is anticipated that the action of the courts on the injunction matter will finally end in the arrest of the leaders and it has been decided that if such arrests occur other men will be immediately placed at the head so that the striking forces will not be without leaders. Already a number of substitute leaders have been chosen in the event of the arrest of the present men in command.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Edward B. Rambo, Pacific Coast manager for the Winchester Arms Co. at San Francisco, died suddenly yesterday.

William Bell, a longshoreman at Port Blakeley, Wash., stabbed and killed his wife Saturday night and committed Suicide Sunday night.

George Waters, a colored man at Los Angeles, shot his wife yesterday and then shot himself. He died shortly after, but the woman will recover.

Prince Henri of Orleans, who met the Count of Turin in a duel Sunday, was badly wounded by a jab in the abdomen. His physicians think he will recover.

Michel Angiolillo, the assassin of Premier Canovas del Castillo, was tried by court martial yesterday and sentenced to the garrote. Upon hearing the sentence he had to be assisted from the courtroom.

The hearing of the equity case of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Co. against the United Mine Workers of America was called in Pittsburgh yesterday morning and the taking of testimony commenced.

John Masterson, aged 75 years, shot and killed his nephew, John Kurran, at San Francisco yesterday and then wounded himself. Masterson had been working for Kurran and had been discharged, and it seems took his dismissal to heart.

Virgil, the 20-year-old son of Mrs. Kate Gallagher, a school teacher at Galveston, Tex., murdered his mother yesterday and then set fire to the bed where he placed her. He had deliberately planned the crime in order to procure money to spend on a variety of amusements. He had packed his trunk and had procured insurance on the furniture. He confessed the crime.

Ex-Governor T. T. Crittenden of Missouri, who has been Consul General of the United States to Mexico, has just returned after a four years absence. Mr. Crittenden is very enthusiastic over the Mexican Republic and believes that the United States, Mexico and the South American States should combine and agree that not an ounce of silver should be mined within their borders until the white metal is given honorable recognition. He claims that Mexico has improved and is improving under the system of free silver. He also recommends that the custom houses along the dividing line of this country and Mexico should be abandoned and permit everything to pass the line free of duty.

A SHOT AT THE SENATE.

A Kentucky Orator Who Found the Senate Too Deliberative.

A lot of Kentuckians were talking the other evening about the great men of their state, says the Washington Star.

"One of the finest old gentlemen on earth," said a distinguished man in the group, "is Gen. John S. Williams, or 'Cerro Gordo,' as he is popularly known, and when I was in the senate gallery the other day, listening to the solemnity of things, I was reminded of the time when Gen. Williams was a Kentucky representative in that distinguished body. The general, as we all know in Kentucky, is a spellbinder, and when he turns his voice and his brilliant oratory loose on the blue grass air it stirs things up 40 feet below the ground and clean up to the canopy of the heavens.

"When the general came to the senate he had an idea that what was good in Kentucky was good anywhere, so he was ready at any time to let loose any quantity of eloquence. He had opportunity in plenty, as it happened, but the result of his efforts was not satisfactory. He kept on trying, but still it wouldn't work, and one day the general gave way in the cloakroom before a dozen or more listeners.

"'Be gad, sah,' he said, hotly, 'I think it is a shame, sah, that the galleries of this senate chamber are not allowed to applaud, sah. Why, sah, when I make a speech in Kentucky, sah, the applause is such, sah, that if the same privileges were allowed in these galleries, sah, I would be able, sah, to lift the roof right off of this magnificent marble structure, sah. But as it is, sah, the stupidity, the dignity and the frigidity of this senate absolutely paralyzes my intellect, sah.'"

Quick Biscuits.

In making biscuits we measured one quart of flour that had been sifted, and added to it two rounding teaspoonfuls of baking powder and sifted them together with one level teaspoonful of salt. We then rubbed in one ounce of butter. Having seen that the oven was hot enough (at about 400 degrees F.) we brushed the pan with oil and then added a half pint of milk to the flour and then kneaded it up quickly. We rolled the dough an inch in thickness, and with a cutter about the size of a silver half dollar we cut them out and put them in the pan and the pan in the oven. Always work as rapidly as possible when using baking powder, so as not to lose any of its good effects. We could have used one level teaspoonful of cream or tartar and one-half teaspoonful of soda if we had wished. In either case, sweet milk must be used. We baked the biscuits 20 minutes.—Good Housekeeping.

Cannibalism in Africa.

It appears from an account of his observations by Capt. Sidney Hinde in the Congo Free State that the cannibalistic practices of the natives throughout that region are not fairly understood by the civilized world. Capt. Hinde went to Africa in 1891 in the service of the King of Belgium. He had no conception before going there of the extent to which human flesh is used for food by the natives. It seems that a considerable portion of the slave traffic is to provide meat for those who purchase the prisoners. Every battle is followed by a horrible feast, and the parts unconsumed are smoked and salted for future use. Even in times of peace the practice is observed, and Capt. Hinde says it was not unusual for prisoners or slaves to come to him and beg the privilege of slaughtering some companion to be used for food.

Grasses.

According to Dr. W. J. Beal, the native grasses of North America number about 1,275 species, included in about 140 genera; while in Europe there are only 47 genera and 570 species.

Agriculture in Paraguay.

Agriculture has been about the sole industry of Paraguay since the establishment of the Jesuit missions in 1557. All the field work is done by women.

Countess von Linden.

The Only Woman Lecturer at the German Universities.

While the battle for the social and political position of woman is still raging and remains undecided theoretically, women have practically approached their goal during the last decade in several points, particularly by invading the field of science, which formerly was looked upon as a privilege of man only, says an exchange. The number of female students at the universities of Germany as well as elsewhere is steadily increasing. Women in the study of literary and medical branches are numerous, but the natural sciences, mathematics and astronomy were not looked upon with favor by the weaker sex. The first woman in Germany to devote herself to natural sciences is Countess Maria von Linden. Born July 28, 1869, she received an excellent education at Stuttgart, and graduating from the high school in 1891 she entered the Tubingen university, where she devoted herself to the study of natural sciences, graduating with the highest honors in the fall of 1895. She was then promoted to the degree of doctor rerum naturalium and was the pioneer of her sex in this branch. She is now teaching zoology in the University of Halle with much success, and is the only woman allowed to lecture at any German university.

Water pipe laid cheap by Lange & Schmitt.

Window glass cut all sizes at Lange & Schmitt's.

Postmaster Berry was a passenger for San Francisco last night.

Colonel Nathan Stanley is confined to his room by a severe spell of illness.

For your Sunday reading matter or writing materials call at Mrs. Chas. Lake's.

Crockery, glassware, tinware and agateware lower than ever at Lange & Schmitt's.

Philo Jacobs, who has been quite sick for several days, is up and attending to business.

O. H. Fish, the mining man, was a passenger from Virginia for California last evening.

Universal cook and heating stoves, and cheaper grades sold at cost to reduce stock at Lange & Schmitt's.

Ed. Black and Thera DeLamater, who have been at Floriston on a few day's outing, returned last evening.

Mrs. Beaglehole was a passenger for San Francisco last night. Her millinery store will be closed during her absence.

Mrs. Chas. Lake will promptly order any article that she doesn't happen to have in stock, as far as her line of goods goes.

Geo. D. Pine of Virginia was a passenger for California last evening as a delegate to the Young Men's Institute from Nevada.

Hon. C. C. Powning returned from San Francisco Sunday morning feeling very much improved in health by his trip to the Coast.

H. I. Babcock of E. A. Fargo & Co., San Francisco, arrived from the west yesterday morning and continued south on the local.

A new Postoffice is about to be established at Cuba and will be known as Iceland. Mrs. Mary Dyseret will probably be postmistress.

Henry Riter's Elite is one of the most popular resorts in town. It is central and his stock of wines and liquors are all first-class.

General Orlando Evans' condition is not materially changed except that he is growing weaker, the hot weather having a very depressing effect.

The lunches at the Granite Saloon cannot be excelled and the beer is served ice cold. A choice stock of wines by the bottle or gallon.

W. H. Calligan and wife have returned from Humboldt county, Cal., where they went with a view of locating. They come back satisfied with Nevada.

Pete and Fred of the Monarch and Louvre have an excellent trade at both places. They are good caterers and never allow a customer to go away dissatisfied.

Harry L. Frank and family, late of Carson, have taken up a residence here in order that his children may have the advantages offered at the University.

The Granite Saloon is a quiet and pleasant place of resort. Cool beer is a specialty. Choice wines are sold by the gallon or in quantities desired, also liquors of all kinds.

Mrs. Bennet A. Pryor and her son Fred of Colusa, Cal., daughter and grandson of General Evans, arrived from the west Sunday to assist in nursing the old gentleman.

Mrs. Geo. R. Mosher arrived from California yesterday. She remembered her associate types in the JOURNAL office by providing two cases of fine peaches for their especial benefit.

It is reported that the terms of the ice pool of the several companies up the river has expired and that the same will not be renewed, except between the National and Union Companies.

Call at Muller & Stumpf's Pabst agency for fine California and imported wines for family and medicinal purposes. Sherry, port, muscatel, angelica and all dry wines by the gallon. Open every day until 8 o'clock.

A. Nelson will sacrifice his stock of furnishing goods in order to make room for new goods. Now is the time to get bargains. Call at his store on Virginia street. Free employment office connected with the store.

Nothing definite has been decided regarding the state carnival as yet. The committee which canvassed the town received fair encouragement considering the times and believe the demand of the promoters of the carnival can be easily met.

Mrs. W. Sanders, who took her little boy to San Francisco last week for medical treatment, writes to Mr. Sanders that the doctor advises a surgical operation, also that the boy be kept at the Children's Hospital for a three months course of treatment.

H. Leter is receiving new goods every day. Boys' suits a specialty and in a large variety. He will furnish the regulation uniform for University cadets and guarantees a fit in every case. His prices are at the bottom; all he asks is a reasonable percentage for handling the goods.

NO BREAK IN THE SILVER RANKS.

What Senator Stewart and Jones Did Say

Senator Stewart emphatically contradicts the alleged interview had with him in the New York Times and over which the few goldbugs in Nevada rejoiced. Although the Senator has ventured upon the ground of the Wall street bulls and bears a number of times within the last few days, he denounces it as one of a series of falsehoods that are always told about him when he visits New York.

"I never buy nor sell a share of stock in this city," he said, "and I do not intend to. I did not say that all a man has to do is to go into Wall street, go to sleep and get rich. I stand by the old issues. I did not declare that the time has passed for these issues, and that we must turn to face new ones. Neither did I advise my friends of the West to stop talking silver, as has been suggested.

"Prosperity is here," he continued. "There is no doubt of it, but do you realize that this prosperity results from the adversity of others? In all North America there are good crops. In the rest of the world the crops are poor. The United States is the granary of the world. Of course this means for farmers higher prices, for railroads increased business and bigger dividends. Stocks naturally increase in price, men have money to spend and buy goods, and consequently factories start, but it will last just as long as adversity abroad continues. Let your crop be poor next year and crops abroad be good and we will return to old conditions."

"Then it isn't true," the Senator was asked, "that because of prosperity you have stopped talking of silver?"

"Me stop talking of silver?" said the Senator. "That would be to stop advocating that which will insure permanent prosperity. Now is the time to talk silver. In prosperity is our greatest hope of winning. Better times bring independence. Success removes the shackles from downtrodden men. Last year men were the slaves of the plutocrats. Hunger drove them to sell their votes or submit to dictation. Prosperity will make them independent and they will vote according to their judgment, and that will be for silver."

On the other hand Senator John P. Jones is not an enthusiastic believer in the alleged presence of universal prosperity.

"Where is this much-vaunted prosperity?" inquired Senator Jones. "I have to-day seen something which my Western instincts tell me is a small boom, but I fail to find in that circumstance any evidence that prosperity—the sure enough blown-in-the-bottle McKinley article—is with us. Even this little boom is flutitious; it won't last. I am normally a cheerful man. Croaking is not part of my character. If I could honestly say that prosperity was here—that the end had come to the days of workless men and hungry children—I would do it gladly enough. I want to see prosperity come upon the country as badly as any one can, but I have not seen it yet."

"There is a boom. Confidence has been revived to some extent. There is more work than there was, and capital is becoming interested in projects which a few weeks ago it would have been afraid of. But with all these things, there is no actual change in conditions. The immediate surroundings of the boom of to-day are those of the depression of yesterday. Let me say, and say it clearly, that there can be no real prosperity until we have a scientific currency; until the supply of money is gauged by the demand. Without this, prosperity will prove a delusion."

"What do you think of the continued fall in the price of silver?"

"I think it is perfectly natural. When there is no demand for anything, its price usually declines. Silver has been demonetized here, and now Japan is on a gold basis. Besides, there has been a falling off in the purchases of silver by Eastern countries. Every country that had any trade worth talking about has felt the hard times. The Eastern countries use silver money and most of their purchases are paid for in that money. It comes to the same thing."

"It was said recently, Senator, that both you and Senator Stewart were ready to enter the ranks of the Republican party. Is that true?"

"Most of my time," replied Senator Jones somewhat wearily, "is spent in denying fool stories bred of the 'lilly season' in Washington. No, it is not true. I do not belong with that outfit. Neither does Senator Stewart."

A Former Nevada Man to Report the Klondyke Country.

Sam C. Dunham, statistical expert of the United States Department of Labor will visit the Klondyke, under orders to gather facts and data regarding the discovery of the precious metal, the conditions, as to climate, possibilities, routes, opportunities for capital, etc. Mr. Dunham will prepare a bulletin to be published by next March in ample time to give all those contemplating the trip to Alaska the fullest information.

Mr. Dunham is an old Nevanadan, having formerly lived at Eureka and is well known in the eastern part of the state. He was employed as a typo in the Sentinel office. He is a very competent and well informed man and his report of the northwest country will doubtless be very instructive and valuable.

John W. Mackay will be connected with the Silver Peak gold mines in Esmeralda county, a deal having been consummated that makes him a prominent owner.

FOUND THE KLONDYKE, AND LOST HIS WIFE.

Fortune Strikes Will Young in Two Ways—He Makes Money and Loses an Unfaithful Wife.

Almost simultaneously with the announcement in the JOURNAL a day or two ago that William O. Young formerly of Reno had been heard from after a long silence and that he had hopes of soon becoming a Klondyke millionaire, word comes from Salt Lake that while he has found a fortune he has lost his wife. Mrs. Young after three weary years of waiting and the steadily lengthening of the periods between his letters until they ceased altogether and as the weeks grew into months and the months into years, Mrs. Young came to the conclusion that her husband was dead.

C. M. Fuller an assayer of the Dexter mine at Tuscarora hovered near the sorrowing wife, sympathized with her and finally convinced her that he could measure fill the void in her heart, if she would only consent. There seemed to be a doubt remaining in the mind of Mrs. Young that her husband was dead and she was free, but she could not give up the pleasant companionship of Mr. Fuller, so they agreed to go Salt Lake and enter into a contract marriage without the usual formality of a minister or authorized officer of the law giving them his approval.

They took rooms at a fashionable boarding house in Salt Lake and had hardly got settled down to their conjugal bliss, when they were startled by a letter announcing that Young was alive and about to amass a fortune.

As a proof of Young's sincerity and faithfulness, he forwarded $500 to Mrs. Young's father, M. D. Bowen at Eureka with instructions to send Mrs. Young to him at Alaska immediately.

Fuller still maintains that his intentions are honorable and that he will love and protect her and told her father that if she would procure a divorce, he would immediately make her his lawful wife. Mrs. Young is in a quandry, but it is believed that the divorce proceedings and marriage to Fuller will be easier than an explanation to her husband.

Mrs. Young formerly lived in Reno, as a little girl and many will remember her.

A QUIET WEDDING.

George N. Hammersmith of Reno Chose a Bride From Our Sister Town.

A few relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. N. O. Hammersmith on Sunday afternoon to witness the marriage of their eldest son, George N. Hammersmith, to Miss A. Josephine Burthulson, a sister of Mrs. C. M. Compton of Wadsworth.

Promptly at the hour named, 2:30 p. m., Justice Lunn appeared at the residence, bringing with him his accustomed dignity as well as his good heart and jovial manner, that always serves in the first instance to impress a young couple with the seriousness of the step they are about to take and in the second to start them on their life journey together with a gleam of bright sunshine and encouragement from the old Judge's eyes as he pronounces the words that bind them to each other.

Mr. Fred Litch acted as best man, while Miss Madeline Hammersmith acted as bridesmaid. The solemn words were soon spoken and then Mr. and Mrs. Nick Hammersmith did the honors in entertaining the company present and proved themselves equal to the occasion in the splendid lunch prepared. Amidst the congratulations to the young couple and the good wishes accorded them by all present it was demonstrated that the interest in their future was no sham, but a sincere hope that their whole married life would be as bright and happy as their wedding day.

George Hammersmith is one of Reno's best boys, and is a popular and trusted fireman on the S. P. R. R. Mrs. Hammersmith has been a popular young lady of Wadsworth and by her choice of a husband has shown good judgment.

The JOURNAL congratulates the young couple and extends them the usual courtesies.

Common Sense Self Tilling Kettle.

No more burning hands, spilling, or the cover falling off. James Griffiths has the common sense kettle that he is selling to the ladies of Reno. California has endorsed it as being the best cooking utensil ever used in a kitchen. Seven different sizes than sell from 90 cents to $1.75. Agents wanted. A fine opportunity for a lady. all-31*.

BREVITIES.

Mrs. James Oliver of Carson changed cars for the west last night.

Senator Stewart has our thanks for a copy of the new tariff law.

Sagehen can be hunted and shot now without danger of fine, the close season for those birds having expired on Saturday night.

The National Ice Company have about sold out the stock of ice of last Winter, and before the season is over will be entirely cleaned out.

Mr. Black reports Mrs. Lougley as improving at Floriston and is being carefully nursed by Mrs. Wentworth. They will return to Reno Friday evening. Mrs. Foster and daughter, who have also been rusticated at Floriston, will return at the same time.

It is reported that a small quartz mill on Sardine Creek, Sierra Valley, working the cyanide process on ores, is running the tailings and slums into the creek and killing the fish in the stream. The California Fish Commissioner's attention is respectfully called to it.

An Atchinson, Kan., woman will consent to let her husband go to Alaska if he will draw up a paper to the effect that if he has not returned in three years it means that he will never return, and that she is at liberty to marry again. She does not want any of the Enoch Arden business in here.

Dr. P. T. Phillips passed through yesterday morning bound for Salinas California, where he expects to locate permanently. The Doctor says that he wants none of the Eastern country in his and that he would rather be a respectable bobo out west than the Mayor of a large sized Eastern town. Mrs. Phillips will shortly join the Doctor in his new California home.
